

Summer Reading FAQ's

Q: How many books do I have to read?

A: You are expected to read one book and complete one project.

Q. Can I read more than one book?

A: Of course! In fact, if you read two books and complete two projects, you will be recognized as an Olympic Reader, and you will be entered into a drawing to win a prize. (Only one project will earn extra credit.) If you read two books, you may purchase the second book online or at a local bookstore such as Barnes and Noble.

Q. If I attend Summer Boost, can I read my summer reading book in that program?

A. You may spend time reading in class, but you will still need to read at home and complete the project at home.

Q. When and how do I get my book?

A. You will order your book through your ELA/Reading teacher during the last week of school. Students who order books will be able to pick them up at the Middle School in early July. We will post on the District website when books are available. Students in the Summer Boost program will receive their books when the program begins.

Q. When is my project due?

A. Your project is due the first day of school. Late projects will not be accepted.

Q. How do I submit my project?

A. You will submit your project during your ELA class on the first day of school. Digital projects will be submitted to Google Classroom, and paper projects can be handed to your teacher. Be prepared to present your project or email it to your teacher during the first day of school.

Q. How is my extra credit earned?

A. Extra Credit is earned based on the quality of your work. You may use your points on assessments in ELA during the first marking period only. Your teacher will determine how many points you may use on a single assessment, and some assessments may be excluded. Speak to your teacher about how you will use your points.

Q. Are there any other incentives for completing summer reading?

A. The most important incentive is that reading will help you to improve your reading skills. However, any student who reads a book from the list and completes a project will be entered into a drawing to win a great prize!
